About Bangladesh :

Bangladesh officially known as the People's Republic of Bangladesh is a country located in South of Asian Continent. Bangladesh shares its land borders with India and Myanmar . It is the world's 8th most populous country and its largest city and capital is Dhaka and Chittagong is the largest port city. The official language of Bangladesh is Bengali language . Bengali people make up 98% of the population and the politically dominant Bengali Muslim make the nation the world's third largest muslim majority country. Islam is the official religion of Bangladesh.

Bangladesh is a middle power and a developing nation and its economy ranks 43rd in terms of nominal GDP and 29th in terms of PPP. It is one of the largest textile exporter in the world.

CLIMATE :

Bangladesh's climate is tropical with a mild winter from October to March, and a hot, humid summer from March to June. A warm and humid monsoon season lasts from June to October and supplies most of the country's rainfall.

LANGUAGE :

Bengali is the official language. However, English is sometimes used secondarily for official purposes (especially in the legal system). Although laws were historically written in English, they were not translated into Bengali until 1987. Bangladesh's constitution and laws now exist in English and Bengali. English is used as a second language by the middle and upper classes, and is widely used in higher education.

RELIGION :

Islam is the largest and the official state religion of Bangladesh and the country is home to most Bengali Muslims and the second-largest ethnic group in the Muslim world. Most Bangladeshi Muslims are Sunni, followed by Shia and Ahmadiya. About four percent are non-denominational Muslims. Bangladesh has the fourth-largest Muslim population in the world and is the third-largest Muslim-majority country.

Hinduism is followed by 12.1 percent of the population most are Bengali Hindus, and some are members of ethnic minority groups. Bangladeshi Hindus are the country's second-largest religious group and the third-largest Hindu community in the world, after those in India and Nepal. Hindus in Bangladesh are fairly evenly distributed, with concentrations in Gopalganj, Dinajpur, Sylhet, Sunamganj, Mymensingh, Khulna, Jessore, Chittagong and parts of the Chittagong Hill Tracts. Despite their dwindling numbers, Hindus are the second-largest religious community (after the Muslims) in Dhaka.
